ROWAN ATKINSON TURNS PIPE-SMOKING FRENCH DETECTIVE AFTER A LONG TELLY BREAK

Rowan Atkinson on the trail of a killer as French detective Jules Maigret

With Fiona Shaw in Maigret

Can you believe it's been 12 years since Blackadder star Rowan Atkinson was last seen regularly on our television screens? With the exception of the odd appearance as Mr Bean, including at the 2012 Olympics opening ceremony, Rowan has been concentrating more on films than on the small screen.

But this week he returns in the first of two adaptations of stories about French writer Georges Simenon's fictional detective Jules Maigret. The first, Maigret Sets A Trap, is set during a sweltering Parisian summer in 1955. When four women are murdered, Maigret has to find the killer.

Here, Rowan tells Hot TV why he accepted the role and why he feels the pressure of being the star of the show.

DID YOU SAY YES TO THIS STRAIGHT AWAY?

ITV sent the script of the first film. I read it, thought about it for three months and then decided I didn't want to do it because I wasn't sure I could do it. I was re-offered the part but even then I had to think about it for some time because I had to believe I could play it.

CAN YOU TELL US MORE ABOUT THE DETECTIVE?

The odd thing about him as a character is he's not much of a character. He's fairly bland. He hasn't got a French accent or a limp or a lisp and he doesn't love opera. There isn't a tremendous amount to get hold of in character terms. He's just an ordinary guy doing a slightly extraordinary job in a quite unpleasant world.

SO HOW ARE YOU PLAYING HIM?

The thing I thought I could do was his thoughtfulness and his compassionate side. He's definitely not an egotist, he's not a performer, he's not an eccentric, he's not a weirdo, he hasn't really got a bad streak in him. I think I'm quite good at not doing very much on screen. So that drove me to say yes. We decided to make two films and that's what we've done.

WERE YOU ACTIVELY LOOKING FOR THIS SORT OF ROLE?

Not particularly. Anyway, the idea of playing a TV detective felt like a road down which many have trodden. In particular, I'm quite nervous about playing characters that have been played before. I think it's more fun to create a character from scratch.

HOW IS MAIGRET DIFFERENT FROM OTHER TV DETECTIVES?

I liked the fact it didn't feel like any other TV detective show that I knew currently. It's not really Morse and it's not A Touch Of Frost and it's not Midsomer Murders. The period and the setting helps and it's quite dark, quite seedy and quite sleazy. It has a unique tone to it.

DO YOU ENJOY HAVING THE RESPONSIBILITY OF BEING THE LEADING MAN?

Actually, no, I don't. I try not to set myself up as a team leader too much. My job is the same as any other actor, which is just to play the part and make it credible and tell the story. Also, I tend to take the work extremely seriously. I'm quite a dull person to work with because I'm very absorbed in the work I do.

HOW WOULD YOU SUM UP THE APPEAL OF MAIGRET?

I hope we've done a decent job of telling some interesting stories. I think the world of Maigret is very interesting, like the fact they carry guns and don't have lawyers present when they interview people. I just hope people find the stories engaging.

BOYS MEET GIRLS (AND GRYLLS)

BEAR GIVES THE ISLAND A TWIST FOR SERIES THREE, AS MEN AND WOMEN GET TOGETHER

The women castaways take up the challenge...

...but how will the men cope on the island?

We've had an island of men trying to survive against the odds and we've had men and women trying to survive on neighbouring islands.

Now, Bear Grylls is throwing groups of men and women together on one island to see if they can first of all find each other and then work together to survive.

Here, Bear tells us all about the third series of The Island With Bear Grylls.

DID YOU ALWAYS THINK THE ISLAND WOULD BE A HIT?

TV is one of those things — you never know what's going to capture people's imagination and become a hit. There is no magic formula. But I did always feel that there was always something special about The Island, purely because nobody had ever filmed a show in this way before. It definitely captures something primal in people, where they ask themselves if they could do it. That's the question everybody asks, "If it was me, could I survive?"

MORE THAN 135,000 PEOPLE APPLIED FOR THIS SERIES...

Yeah. It's amazing and a great privilege. The thing is that everyone's got an opinion about how they would do on the island, about who they love or hate, about who's stronger, the men or the women, about class and social divides. The Island isn't just about survival, it's a medium to show us what people are like both on their own and in groups. And this season plays to all of those even more strongly, because now we're mixing it big time. People have said, "Oh my God, if you put men and women on an island together, it's going to be carnage." And in many ways it was carnage, but not always in the way you might expect. The outcome was very affirming by the end, but at times painful to watch.

SO HOW DOES IT WORK?

It's a big island, and we put them on in two groups — women, and then on the other side of the island, men. Neither group knew the other was there, and it takes them a while to find each other. And then it got interesting!

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN THE TWO GROUPS FINALLY MET?

All of us like to think that we don't have prejudices. But it's easy to think that way when you're sitting at home, comfortable and well fed, not tired and under pressure, to say that men and women are equal. But what happens on the island, when they're under such pressure, is you see behind that. So you might think that you'd give all the strong jobs to the men. But actually the truth was often different. What I'm always reminded of with this show is that survival isn't about the muscles or the gender. It's an attitude thing. Strength is a state of mind. The real survivors have that state of mind, and it's not gender specific.

DID ANY ROMANCES DEVELOP?

I think it's good not to spoil that. All I'll say is that it's inevitable, when you put men and women together, that there are going to be some interesting dynamics that you won't get so much of in a single-sex group.

IS THERE AS MUCH DRAMA IN THIS SERIES AS THERE WAS IN THE LAST?

One of the guys who's been involved in all three series, and whose opinion I really respect, said to me, "I don't have any spin or bull*. I've been really close to all three series and I can tell you this one blows the other two seasons out of the water." So, yes, I'm excited about this one, for sure.

BLAST FROM THE PAST!

MICHELLE GETS A SURPRISE WHEN SHE'S ASKED TO PLAN AN OLD FLAME'S WEDDING

Michelle meets a familiar face in Coronation Street this week when she finds herself planning the wedding of her first love! Will, played by Mr Selfridge star Leon Ockenden, arrives in the Street with his fiancée, Saskia, to seek Michelle's help in planning their big day.

Michelle (Kym Marsh) is pleased to see her old friend and with Steve (Simon Gregson) still in Spain, the pair slowly come closer together. Will there be trouble ahead for Steve and Michelle? Hot TV sat down for a chat with Kym to find out all about it. . .

CAN YOU TELL US ABOUT THE HISTORY BETWEEN MICHELLE AND WILL?

They were at high school together and dated for a while when they were about 15. So he was her first ever kiss, first ever anything. But he isn't someone she has kept in touch with or particularly thought about.

SO HOW DOES HE COME BACK INTO HER LIFE?

Michelle happens to be planning a wedding for a woman who comes in to tell Michelle she is going on a business trip and she should deal with her fiancé for all enquiries regarding the wedding. Michelle is really fed up about this because she's like, "Oh great, a man dealing with a wedding!" Then Saskia comes into the pub to introduce her fiancé to Michelle and Michelle is like, "I know you!" and they are both like, "Oh my God!"

IS THERE AN ATTRACTION THERE?

There is no instant attraction — she is just amused that she is planning the wedding of one of her ex-boyfriends. At this point he is just a friend who she has not seen for a long time. It's no secret that she has come back from Spain having seen Steve and did not get the reception that she was hoping for. She is so upset about the fact that he just seems perfectly fine without her and just doesn't seem to want to come home. It's been six months he's been away now — a girl has needs!

WOULD MICHELLE BE TEMPTED TO CHEAT ON STEVE?

Michelle has very strong morals and a sense of right and wrong — she has never cheated on Steve — but who knows? He needs to get back from Spain as, while temptation is in her way, who knows what will happen? Steve has had an affair behind her back before, which resulted in them splitting and him marrying Becky. So there has been that history between the two of them and if anybody is notorious for it, it is Steve.

DO YOU SYMPATHISE WITH MICHELLE?

Yeah, I do feel sorry for her. I was worried that everyone is going to hate her but I don't think you will because you see her struggle. She has got Street Cars and the Rovers and Amy and Liz, you know what I mean? She has been there for him but he's not there for her. Now that he is feeling so much better, he is not around for her. She is feeling lonely, unloved and unappreciated.

WHEN YOU GOT THE STORYLINE, DID YOU WORRY THAT THEY MIGHT SPLIT MICHELLE AND STEVE UP?

Absolutely! This is soap and we know that couples hardly ever stay together. There is always that worry and obviously I wouldn't want them to split Steve and Michelle up permanently, but the writers do what they do and we do as we're told. We portray the story as well as we can, but we hope that won't be the case.

ARE YOU HAPPY TO HAVE SIMON GREGSON BACK?

Simon has been back for a week now and it's like he has never been away. He is so funny and we have just slipped back into the same relationship we have always had, taking the mickey out of each other and having a great laugh on set. He had to have a spray tan as he is so pale and Steve has been in Spain but it has gone patchy on his hands and he joked that he looks like he has had a fight with a gingerbread man.

Holly and Charity conspire together

EMMERDALE

GOOD GOLLY MISS HOLLY

HOLLY BARTON IS BACK – BUT WHAT IS SHE UP TO?

She became a drug addict, lost her dad in a car crash and dated a gay man. So is it any wonder why Holly Barton left Emmerdale?

It's been four years since we last saw actress Sophie Powles playing Holly, but she returns this week and she brings trouble with her. As she's already in cahoots with Charity, it's clear she owes money to someone and when she brings her boyfriend back with her, there's definitely more than meets the eye.

Here, Sophie tells Hot TV what to expect from Holly's return...

CAN YOU REMIND US OF WHY HOLLY LEFT EMMERDALE?

She's the eldest daughter of the Barton family and when we last saw her, she had gotten herself into a bit of trouble and went down the path of substance abuse. She lost her father in a car crash, she overdosed and decided the village wasn't the right place for her any more.

She needed to get away from all the bad memories and have a fresh start. Holly got offered a job in fashion and textiles in London and moved there and she's been there ever since.

WOULD YOU SAY SHE WAS A GOOD GIRL OR A BAD GIRL?

I don't think she's ever been bad. She only makes bad decisions. She's always been a bit naughty and cheeky and has a bit of attitude. And I think the situation – the drug addiction – she found herself in brought out the worst in her. She's quite a nice girl really and she loves her family. She just found herself in a bad place.

WAS THAT QUITE A HEAVY STORYLINE TO ACT OUT?

Yes, it was, but as an actress it was brilliant for me. It was exhausting and hard work because I wanted it to be authentic. I didn't want to offend anyone who was going through a similar situation. I did a lot of research and hopefully I did a good job.

WAS IT A RELIEF THAT HOLLY WASN'T KILLED OFF?

Yes, it was a nice feeling to know that the door hadn't closed. I was excited on a personal level to do something different after three years of playing her.

HOW DID YOU END UP COMING BACK TO THE SOAP?

I didn't ask to. I'd been travelling for six months, living out of a backpack, assisting my boyfriend, Mark Waters, who's a film-maker. We were doing all sorts of stuff and getting involved in creative projects in front of and behind the camera. We'd been travelling around Australia and I told him I missed working in TV, especially in Emmerdale. The next day, my agent emailed me, saying she'd had a call from them and they'd like me to come back. It felt like fate – how could I say no to it when it was what I'd asked for the day before? It came right at the end of my travels. The timing was perfect.

WHAT WAS YOUR FIRST DAY BACK ON-SET LIKE?

I'm not going to try and sound cool – it was quite scary. I care a lot about what I do and I'm really passionate about acting. I respect Emmerdale and the people I'm working with, so I wanted to do a good job. It was the first time I'd worked on TV for a while.

WHAT CAN WE EXPECT FROM HOLLY THIS TIME ROUND?

It's best to expect the unexpected. You never know what she's going to get up to. She has a tendency to make bad decisions and when she finds herself in trouble, she doesn't always react in the most responsible way. She's going to cause some drama!

THIS WEEK'S SOAPS

DRUNK PHIL DIGS HIMSELF AN EVEN DEEPER HOLE

The drunken Phil storyline drags on for another week and this time Ben is more angry with his dad than ever. After Phil causes Abi to fall, she seizes the chance to pretend she's had a miscarriage — even though she was never pregnant. This pushes Ben over the edge but just as he's about to suffocate a sleeping Phil with a pillow, Sharon interrupts him.

The next day, Phil's determined nobody is going to get their hands on his businesses. And how is he going to ensure that? He starts tearing down the car lot with a digger! But is there someone inside?

Elsewhere, Linda and Mick are still worried about Ollie and want answers from his doctors about whether he could be permanently brain damaged. Linda tells Mick he has to forgive Nancy, so he calls a family meeting — but can Mick actually say the words?

THE SIGNS AREN'T GOOD FOR TRACY

Robert's joy at being the new boss of the bistro doesn't last long. Tracy's ordered a new sign for the business but Robert's furious when he sees it being fitted. Tracy hits back by kicking off at Nick and Carla's leaving do and Robert demands to know where Tracy got the extra £10,000 to help pay for the Bistro, but she claims she got it by selling dodgy gear. We wonder what Tracy is really up to because when Carla tells her that she refuses to live in fear over what Tracy might say, Tracy says she never had any plans to tell Nick about Carla's one-night stand in the first place!

Elsewhere, Sarah can't bring baby Harry home as he has an infection and Michelle returns from Spain to a surprise when she bumps into Will, her first ever boyfriend.

HOLLY RETURNS TO CAUSE CHAOS

Holly Barton is back in the Dales but what's she up to? She tells Dean by phone that she'll have the cash by the end of the day and then goes to the pub and prepares to carry out her and Charity's plan. Once the fire alarm goes off and the pub's evacuated, Holly heads to the cellar — but Moira is there waiting for her! Later in the week, Moira gives her a job cleaning cars. Moira's scared her daughter's back on drugs and vows to keep an eye on her.

Elsewhere, a visit to the doctor ends up leaving David concerned when a lump is found and Harriet is given food for thought when Ashley announces he is retiring from work. Also, Chas is suspicious when she finds her drawers have been rifled through and Noah grasses up Liv.

CELINE'S LIES MAY REVEAL THE TRUTH

Holly gets a call from Jason as he and Robbie are leaving Hollyoaks. If she wants to change Robbie's mind, all she needs to do is get to the airport fast, but Holly has been drinking and, heading home later, she loses control of the car with explosive consequences. Who's going to survive?

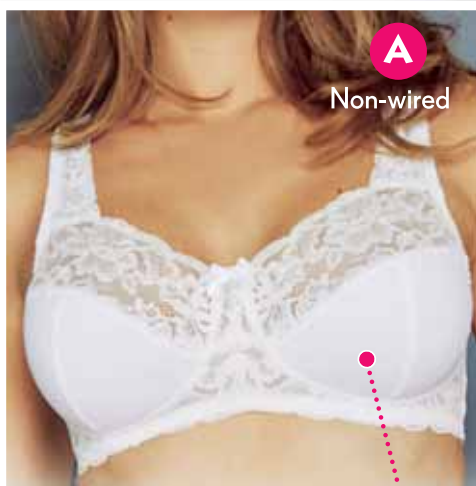

Elsewhere, Celine turns up at the Roscoes' pretending to be a midwife and Joe falls for her lies. But Mercedes turns up and discovers her cousin's deceit. Then after catching a glimpse of Lindsey, Esther tells Mercedes about the earring that was dropped where she was attacked. They look up at the poster of Lindsey outside the hospital and realise that she's wearing the same earrings! Have they just discovered that Lindsey is the Gloved Hand Killer?

HOT FILMS

JURASSIC WORLD

From Friday, 8pm, Sky Movies Premiere

This brilliant reboot is just what fans ordered – a fantastic leading man in Chris Pratt, stunning CGI dinosaurs and chaos in a theme park when the prehistoric beasts go bananas. Building on the site of the former Jurassic Park should have rung alarm bells but everything goes well until the newest attraction – a genetically modified giant – escapes and goes on a killing spree. ★★★★★

THE HEAT

Saturday, 9pm, Channel 4

Putting two mismatched law enforcers together to solve a crime isn't unique but the talents of Sandra Bullock and Melissa McCarthy work so well, you'd think the idea's never been tried before. Expect plenty of LOLs, especially from the foul-mouthed McCarthy. ★★★★★

THE FAMILY

Saturday, 9pm, Film4

Here's another box office flop to add to the ever-growing tally of Michelle Pfeiffer and Robert De Niro. They play a married couple who end up in rural France in this fish-out-of-water comedy. They're on a witness relocation programme hoping not to be found by the Mafia. ★★

INDIANA JONES AND THE KINGDOM OF THE CRYSTAL SKULL

Saturday, 10.45pm, BBC1

Let's hope that when Indiana's fifth outing hits cinemas in 2019, it'll be better than this 2008 rehash. Here, the archaeologist teams up with an irritating teen to search for an artefact of "untold power". ★★

DUE DATE

Sunday, 9pm, Channel 5

There are clichés aplenty in this film about two opposite personalities forced to join ranks and travel across the country on a road trip. The usually good comic talents of Robert Downey Jr and Zach Galifianakis are let down by a poor script and not enough laughs. ★★

SPORT

GERMANY V ENGLAND

SATURDAY, ITV, 7.45PM

The domestic calendar takes a break as England head to Berlin for the first of several warm-up matches in preparation for their European Championship campaign. The old enemies last met in November 2013 in a game that saw Arsenal's Per Mertesacker score the only goal of the game, but their previous Berlin encounter in 2008 saw England 2-1 victors. The world champions will be a massive test for Roy Hodgson's men as he gets the chance to see fringe players such as Dele Alli stake a claim for a place in his final squad. Both sides met France in their previous round of friendly matches with the Three Lions winning 2-0 and the Germans losing by the same scoreline. But that won't mean a thing when it comes to this summer's tournament, when Joachim Löw's side will be one of the favourites to lift the trophy.

INTERNATIONAL FRIENDLY

ENGLAND V NETHERLANDS

TUESDAY, ITV, 8PM

Roy Hodgson's Euro preparations continue as he welcomes the Netherlands to Wembley Stadium, but you'd have to go back to that famous Euro 96 clash to see when England were last victorious over Holland. Holland played here four years ago when they defeated England 3-2, with Arjen Robben grabbing a brace and Klaas-Jan Huntelaar scoring for the visitors. Both of the hosts' goals came in the final five minutes, through Gary Cahill and Ashley Young. Danny Blind will be preparing his Dutchmen for the 2018 World Cup after a disastrous European qualifying campaign that saw them not even make the play-offs! But with stars like Robben and Memphis Depay in the squad, it will be a stern test for the home side.

SATURDAY 26 MARCH

Ant & Dec's Saturday Night Takeaway

6pm, ITV

It's the penultimate edition of Ant and Dec's brilliant series and we are already sad that next Saturday's episode will be the last time we'll see the two pint-sized pranksters presenting it for another year. But on the plus side it means that we only have two weeks to wait until they're back on our screens presenting the Britain's Got Talent auditions! This series has been one of the most ambitious to date, what with giving away a cruise holiday to dozens of viewers and the studio audience, along with shocking regular folk and celebrities with hidden camera stunts. We have two slight criticisms, though, boys. The Who Shot Simon Cowell? segment didn't really work as it has nothing to do with the rest of the entertainment. And the End of the Show Show is where we tended to switch over to the other side as it ran out of ideas pretty quickly. But those faults aside, when as much effort goes into a series such as this, it's no wonder that almost seven million of us have been tuning in every week to watch. So keep up the good work and we look forward to seeing how you can top it next year! ★★★★★☆

EASTER SUNDAY

The Night Manager

9pm, BBC1

We're not sure what's been the biggest revelation in this Sunday night thriller – that Thor's brother is a possible James Bond in the making or that House is good at being evil? For the unenlightened, Tom Hiddleston has made us forget about what a bad boy he is as Loki from Thor and lined himself up as a potential successor to Daniel Craig's 007 in this ace thriller. It reaches its climax tonight when Tom's character of Jonathan Pine returns to the Nefertiti Hotel in Cairo. He joins Roper, played brilliantly by House star Hugh Laurie, as he begins the last business transfer with Barghati. But Pine's worried his cover could be blown when he comes face-to-face with hotel owner Freddie Hamid. Meanwhile, Jed risks her life when she gives Pine the combination to Roper's safe. Back in London, Burr is left red-faced after the failed attempt to intercept Roper's lorries that are carrying his illegally purchased weapons. And when government bigwigs give her the heave-ho, she's scared that Roper has turned Pine. Elsewhere, Pine thinks that Hamid's suspicious of him, so he drugs him and takes him home! ★★★★★☆

Rowing: The Boat Races

2.25pm, BBC1

Now in its 162nd year, Oxford and Cambridge will be taking each other on along the River Thames in the oldest event in the sporting calendar. Clare Balding presents as the two unis slug it out on the water in the annual men's race, followed by the 71st contest between the girls, who compete on the same course as their male counterparts. ★★★★★☆

Antiques Roadshow

8pm, BBC1

A whopping 2,000 visitors turn up for tonight's episode as Fiona Bruce and the team head for Royal Hall in Harrogate. And viewers are in for a treat with the highest valuation of an item in the show's 20th year! Also, Geoffrey Munn hears the sad story of a sapphire ring left to a visitor by a dead pal. Forgive the pun, but this show never gets old. ★★★★★☆

Indian Summers

9pm, Channel 4

Last week's murder was a bit of a shocker and Aafrin can't get his head around it. However, he has to put that to one side and umpire a friendly cricket match between British and Indian politicians. But trouble's in store courtesy of the Dala family. Elsewhere, the Maharajah of Amritpur is befriended by Ralph, but there's a reason behind it. ★★★★★☆

EASTER MONDAY

NEW SERIES

The Island with Bear Grylls

9pm, Channel 4

What is it with people wanting to follow Bear Grylls into the middle of nowhere and live off the land? He's taken the likes of American President Barack Obama and funnyman Will Ferrell into the wilderness, and over on ITV, he's got two more episodes left leading some British celebs into the African bush in Mission Survive. But if we were offered the chance to go to a desert island, drink our own wee and kill a pig, there's a good chance we'd tell Bear where to go and book ourselves a weekend at Center Parcs. However, there are 16 people who are actually relishing the thought of going into the bush with the help of the explorer. For this third series of the show they are being dropped off by boat on an uninhabited island in the Pacific where for the next month or so, they'll have to do almost anything to survive. On one end of the island there are eight women, and on the other there are eight men, but neither group knows of the other's existence. And all they'll have are their clothes, camera equipment, some medical supplies, basic tools and enough water to last them for a day. How many will survive past the first episode? ★★★★★

Modern Family

8.30pm, Sky1

With Claire about to take over the closet business, she decides she needs to get her own house in order first. There's a hitch, though, when both Luke and Phil refuse to throw anything away in the declutter. Meanwhile, a newly retired Jay wants to take up a hobby, much to Cameron's horror, while Gloria tackles a new sport herself – golf. ★★★★★☆

Fresh Meat

10pm, Channel 4

It's the final episode of this hit-and-miss comedy and with their finals now over, it's freedom time for the housemates. But when the results eventually come in, not all of them are pleased with their degrees. Then, on graduation day, there are plenty of revelations before they host the alternative Grad Ball to end all Grad Balls. ★★★★★☆

The Walking Dead

9pm, FOX

Oh how we love The Walking Dead. But with a paltry three episodes left before the series comes to an end, will Rick and the crew survive at least until the next few weeks? The beauty of this programme is that you never know what lies ahead. There haven't been any huge deaths of major characters of late. Is all of that about to change? ★★★★★★

7.30 Live International Football

England v Netherlands (Kick-off 8.00pm). Mark Pougatch presents coverage of the friendly match at Wembley Stadium, as Roy Hodgson's side continue their preparations for Euro 2016. Surprisingly, the Dutch will not be involved in this summer's tournament in France, having finished a disappointing fourth in their qualification group, which was not even enough to merit a play-off place. Ajax legend Danny Blind took over the managerial reins from Guus Hiddink during that campaign, but could not lead Oranje to the finals. With commentary by Clive Tyldesley and Glenn Hoddle.

Benefits by the Sea: Jaywick

9pm, Channel 5

Is this the most depressing series on television since Channel 4's Benefits Street? Or is it a fascinating glimpse into the lives of those who are less well-off and plagued with addiction? You can decide as Benefits by the Sea continues tonight, following a group of residents who live in the poor coastal village of Jaywick. Recovering alcoholic JP has just moved back in with partner Sarah but when they return home from a day out, they find they've been burgled. And JP quickly becomes convinced that a newcomer to Jaywick – somebody he knows – is guilty. No stranger to trouble, Chris has served time for GBH and assault and is currently on probation for criminal damage. When JP spots him in the street, the two come to blows before Chris scarpers, leaving for good. Meanwhile, other unwelcome visitors are also causing havoc in the area. The travellers are back in town and local landlord Barry is annoyed, as they've left a mess behind them, thus making his business suffer. Elsewhere, Gaz has fallen off the wagon and calls Chantelle in a drunken state. Once she gives him hell, he agrees to give up the booze. ★★★★★

Happyish

10pm, Sky Atlantic

You'd think with the comedy creations of Alan Partridge and Paul and Pauline Calf behind him, Steve Coogan should know what happiness is. Well, while he might, his character in this new satirical comedy doesn't. He plays Thom Payne who, as the series starts, is celebrating his 44th birthday and seems quite at peace with the fact he's reached the middle part of his life. In fact, everything seems to be going swimmingly for him with his wife and son. However, it becomes clear through conversations he has with himself alongside fantasy sequences (courtesy of various medications) that he's feeling increasingly distressed and alienated from a world that he can't relate to. This is especially true when it comes to his job as an advertising exec – a role he reckons is only second to working with the devil. It doesn't help when he gets a new boss, a 25-year-old Swede who is obsessed with social media. And he ends up having a very public meltdown. All of this makes him ask the questions is he having a mid-life crisis, does he have a low ceiling for joy and is he only ever going to be “happyish”? ★★★★★

31 MARCH

Line of Duty

9pm, BBC2

It's only week two of the corrupt cop drama and we are already hooked. The third series began last week with the fatal shooting of a criminal suspect by an armed response unit led by Sergeant Danny Waldron. Danny and his team claimed they acted in self-defence, but AC-12 came across evidence that suggested it was a deliberate killing. Under interview, Danny denied that, of course, so DC Kate Fleming was sent undercover into his team to find out more. Tonight, the unit closes ranks even further following the shooting at the drugs house. With DC Fleming on the inside, her AC-12 colleagues manage to give her some information that helps her to expose cracks in the group's story. It results, however, in something tragic. Meanwhile, DS Steve Arnott looks deeper into Waldron's background and makes a shocking discovery. Then his career is further complicated by an investigation into his own conduct and while he's eager to prove his innocence, he nevertheless puts the Waldron case first. And the increasing pressure on Danny's squad pushes his colleague Rod, played brilliantly by Will Mellor, to the edge. ★★★★★

FRIDAY

NEW SERIES

Two Doors Down

10pm, BBC2

New comedies on BBC1 and BBC2 have been rather hit-and-miss recently. Somehow, Citizen Khan has managed four series – with another to go in October – using just one joke. Mountain Goats had its moments but they were few and far between and Count Arthur Strong was panned by the critics but has still managed to limp along for two series. So where does Scottish comedy Two Doors Down fit in with these damp squibs? Sadly, somewhere right in the middle. For the next six weeks, we are back in Latimer Crescent where Eric and Beth Laird live with their family and oddball neighbours. In the first episode, Eric leaves the freezer door open and everything defrosts. Faced with chucking out all her grub, Beth decides instead to cook everything and invite Cathy, Colin, Christine, Sophie, Ian and Jaz over to eat it all. Everything goes well until Cathy asks Colin to go home and get something out of their double-door freezer to replace the defrosted food – a whole Scottish salmon. Unfortunately it won't fit into Beth's run-of-the-mill freezer. And as the food fiasco continues, temperatures begin to rise. ★★★★★
